The Official Newsletter of GLACURH 2014

Co-Chairs Update

Erik and Julie here. We are so impressed with the amount of excitement we have seen from all over the region. We cannot wait for everyone to arrive. Everything is coming together, you have a place to stay, food to eat, classrooms to present in, boardrooms to sit in, places to turn in your programs, registration forms, AND one heck of a conference staff. Indiana State University is ready for GLACURH 2014 The Great Arctic Adventure: Expedition Leadership. The adventure is about to begin!

Spirit Challenge

For each Newsletter we are sending out a challenge to earn more pre-conference spirit points for your school. Here the rules

1. Tweet or Instagram a Picture of your Delegation in their best Arctic Gear. Showing us you are ready for an Arctic Adventure
2. Use hashtag #GLACURH2014.
3. Must put your school in your post.

Facility Tour.... Sycamore Towers Dining Hall

With over seven different line options of all you can eat food, the Sycamore Towers Dining Hall is the perfect option for the delegates to enjoy for Saturday Lunch. You will be able to choose from deli sandwiches, pizza, burgers, homestyle food, soft-serve ice cream, and so much more. We are a Pepsi campus so all of our beverages are Pepsi based, but we also have milk and soy milk. Our dining hall also has options for food allergies.

Facility Tour.... The Hulman Center

The 10,000 seat arena is the location for Saturday's banquet and evening activities. The banquet will be on the floor with tables set all around. The dance will take place on the basketball floor as well. The acoustics will be amazing for the delegates to boogie the night away.
